Communicating effectively

Effective communication can be difficult at the best of times, but if the person you care for has reduced mental capabilities, communication can be even more challenging. Good communication skills are important for caregiving, and can help prevent accidents, avoid other health problems, increase quality of life, and maintain a healthy relationship between you and the person you care for.

Types of communication

There are various types of communication that caregivers can use to share or receive information. Three of these types are verbal, non-verbal, and visual communication. If you are having trouble communicating with the person you care for, try using a different type of communication. Learn about each so you have a strategy for every situation.

Communicate verbally

Talk to the person you care for and engage them in conversation. For those who may become easily confused, try using short, simple sentences and speak slowly. Ask simple questions to better understand their requests or feelings. This will help prevent frustration and misunderstandings.

Communicate non-verbally

Body language, gestures, and facial expressions all carry meaning. Those with cognitive impairments may find this kind of communication easier to understand. Practice non-verbal by nodding and shaking your head clearly, smiling, using hand gestures, and pointing to the things you are speaking about.

Communicate visually

Visual communication involves the use of graphics, pictures, and colours to communicate. Writing or drawing instructions can be helpful for those with memory impairments. Similarly, colour-coding can help to identify important objects around the house.

Molten Double Chocolate Mug Cake

By Jessie Sheehan

Total Time 3 minutes

Yield: 1 mug cake

Ingredients

3 Tbsp. vegetable oil

¼ cup (50 g) granulated sugar

1 large egg yolk

½ tsp. vanilla extract

3 Tbsp. sour cream

½ tsp. baking powder

½ tsp. kosher salt

3 Tbsp. all-purpose flour

2 Tbsp. Dutch-processed cocoa powder

3 Tbsp. semisweet chocolate chips

Vanilla ice cream, for serving

Step 1: Stir together the oil and sugar in a 12- to 14-ounce ceramic, microwave-safe mug, using a fork. Stir in the egg yolk and vanilla, and then the sour cream. Stir in the baking powder and salt, and then the flour and cocoa powder.

Step 2: Stir in the chocolate chips and microwave on high for 1 to 2 minutes, depending on your microwave (in my microwave, 1½ minutes is just about golden). The cake is done when it rises above the edge of the mug (or close to it) and its top looks glossy and set, but not wet.

Step 3: Let cool briefly—it will collapse—sorry, but true. The center will be more molten-like than cake-like, very soft, and very hot—be careful! Enjoy ASAP with vanilla ice cream.

Finally, a word to the mug-cake-making wise: The size of your mug and the strength of your microwave will both impact the success of your cake. Using a 12- to 14- ounce ceramic mug guarantees no overflowing of cake in my microwave, but if yours is all-powerful, consider preparing and microwaving yours in a cereal bowl for assurance. If you are into sharing, this makes two servings. If you are not (that'd be me), consider it one serving.

PODCASTS – IT'S RADIO BUT ON THE INTERNET

Podcasts are audio programs that are made available on the internet. They are downloaded to your computer or phone for playing anywhere or anytime. They are great for learning and staying engaged with all kinds of topics. The Apple Podcasts app is the built-in tool for managing your search, subscription and playback of the podcasts that you choose.

THE PODCASTS APP

The Podcasts app on your iPhone or iPad provides easy access to podcasts. Although you can explore other podcast apps, the Apple Podcast app is built in and provides search, subscription and playback tools that will serve most people's needs. Quick tour of the tabs at the bottom of the screen and review the functions of the Podcasts app.

1 Player Bar

The Player Bar will display once you start listening to podcasts. It will provide a basic control for the podcast that is currently playing. Tap on the Player Bar to display a complete control of the playback function. See Listen to Podcasts below.

2 Listen Now

Here you'll see new and unplayed episodes from your subscribed shows, recently added episodes and recently played episodes. Browse the list by swiping up. Tap any show to listen. Your subscriptions will control which episodes are displayed under Listen Now. 3 Library Your Library will display all of the shows and episodes that you have either subscribed to or have manually added to your library. You can click Episodes to see individual episodes.

Tap Downloaded Episodes to display episodes that have been downloaded to your device.

4 Browse One way to find new podcasts is to Tap browse to see what's new and chart topping. The podcasts are broken into categories including: Featured podcasts are podcasts that Apple editors have deemed to be newsworthy. Top Charts are popular podcasts. After tapping Top Charts, tap All Categories on the upper right in order to get popular podcasts in topic categories.

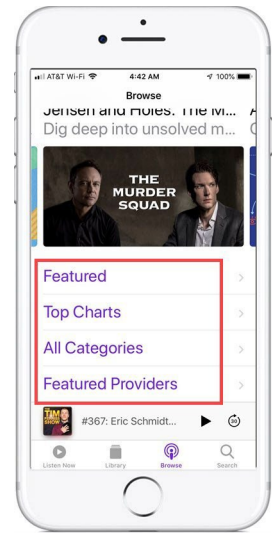

From the Browse Tab, Tap on any episode to start listening or tap + to add it to your Library so that you can listen to it later.

5 Search

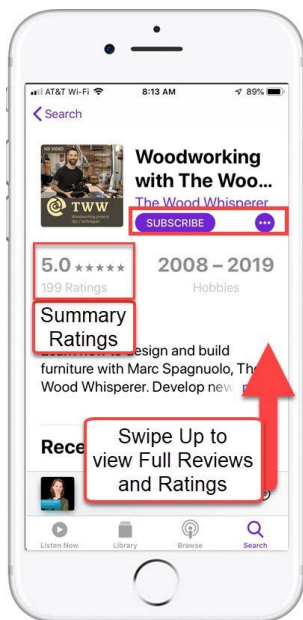

Tap Search to access a search bar where you can either search in Your Library or All Podcasts if you are searching the vast Apple library for a specific podcast or specific category. For example, if you want to find a podcast on Woodworking, type woodworking into the search bar to display the results.

FINDING PODCASTS We recommend two approaches for finding new podcasts on topics that interest you:

1. Tap Browse, Top Charts, All Categories (upper right) and select a specific category to browse.
2. Tap Search, All Podcasts and type a topic into the search bar and tap
3. Search on your Keyboard.

SUBSCRIBING TO PODCASTS An option when you find a podcast that you like is to subscribe to the podcast. If you tap on the podcast to display the show's info page.

On the info page you will see a SUBSCRIBE button. When you subscribe to a podcast, new episodes will be automatically downloaded to your library. This is a great way to stay current with new episodes of your favorite podcasts. When an episode is downloaded onto your device, it will not use cellular data in the playback.

Unsubscribe by tapping , then tap Unsubscribe from the podcast's info page.

There are a range of settings in the settings app for controlling the data and download process for the Podcasts app. Here are some of these setting

Turn off Automatic Downloads – If you are running short on storage on your device, you can turn off automatic downloads. Go to Settings > Podcasts > Download Episodes and choose Off.

Do Not Use Cellular Data – If you want to ensure that you do not use cellular data on your phone, you can turn off Cellular Data. Go to Settings > Podcasts > Cellular Data and choose Off.

Go to Settings > Podcasts > Only Download on Wi-Fi and turn On (green).

Only Download on WiFi – If you want to only download when you are connected to WiFi.
